

Online support for staff

Need help or support with online teaching, learning and assessment? There's a wealth of resources, courses and support services available to you.

Here's a quick-view guide to the resources you need to teach remotely at the University of Leeds.

UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

'Adapt your teaching for online delivery' course on Minerva

Take the specially designed three-unit course to learn how to design, develop and deliver online learning, including developing materials and media and engaging students online.

Click here

Digital Education Service Helpdesk

Have a query or issue relating to online teaching, learning and assessment? Log it with the Digital Education Service Helpdesk to get the support you need.

Click here

University of Leeds Coronavirus website

Get advice on remote working, travel, working on campus, plus answers to staff and student FAQs from the regularly updated dedicated Coronavirus website.

Click here

Digital Practice website

For online teaching resources, guidance on remote teaching, information on online assessments and FAQs on taking your teaching online, visit the Digital Practice website.

Click here

Online development sessions from OD&PL

Get up to speed with tools and techniques for remote working and online teaching, and continue your professional development online with a wide range of courses from OD&PL.

Click here

Buddy support for live online sessions

Access one-to-one advice and support in planning and delivering your online sessions with an experienced buddy – on call when you need them.

Click here

Skills@Library resources for students

Get support with embedding academic skills development into your modules. Direct students to Skills@Library webinars on a range of academic skills topics, plus online resources and 1-1 appointments.

Click here

Online courses for use in teaching

Access free online courses on FutureLearn, Coursera and LinkedIn Learning, and point students to additional resources to support their learning.

Click here